I'm a Research Associate at the French National Research Institute for Sustainable Development \(IRD, France\) and my current work deals with the study of biogeographical and diversity patterns of plants in tropical Africa. I first became interested in this research area during my Ph.D. studies (2005-2009) in taxonomy, phytogeography and conservation of Orchidaceae in Atlantic Central Africa, at the Université Libre de Bruxelles (ULB, Belgium). Now, I'm also focussing a large part of my research on assessing threatened species and identifying priority areas for conservation.

During the last 15 years, I supervised plant-collection programs in Cameroon and Madagascar that helped on training local students in taxonomic and conservation study in high-diversity tropical rain forests. I have organized more than 70 fieldwork missions across tropical Africa. I also played a key role during the establishment of orchid seed banks successfully developed in central Africa and Madagascar to help long term conservation of this charismatic plant family.

Keywords

Discipline: Biogeography, Conservation Biology, Systematic Botany

Other keywords: epiphyte, endemism, herbarium collections, IUCN assessment, seed bank, tree climbing

PRESENT POSITION

Research Associate at the Institut de Recherche pour le Développement (IRD), UMR AMAP, BotAnique et Modélisation de l'Architecture des Plantes et des végétations, Montpellier, France.

Currently based in the Plant Systematics and Ecology Laboratory, University of Yaoundé I, Cameroon
